POETRY.

THE DOG "FRASER."

They said there was gold 'mid the Fraser's sands,
And it echoed o'er seas and shores,
Luring the stranger from distant lands,
Perchance to return no more.
And wild are the legends we often hear,
And sorrowful are the tales,
"Here the men were drowned," and "over there
Is the spot where the Indian fell."
"And that dog you see by the river's bank,
Trudging wearily along its side,
Remembers the time when his master sank,
And his human comrade died."
"Twas a dreary night, and the howling wind
Sung the requiem of the dead;
And the voice of the growl'd man's canine friend
Hung over his watery bed.
"And every night, when the wind roars loud,
He goes to the river's shore,
And gazes upon his master's shroud,
And cries as he did before.
"To-day he is seen where the waters rush
From the canyon's rude embrace;
And the miner's dog he will freely push,
For his is a welcome face.
"But the morrow's sun will scarcely rise,
For the dog is far away;
But the one he seeks, 'neath the water lies,
Till the resurrection day."

HEDIBRAS.

THE WAR.

NEWS FROM THE EAST.

By the arrival of the Str. Pacific at Victoria on the 14th inst., we have Eastern news up to the 7th inst., from which we compile the following brief summary:

It was reported by a scout that Beauregard's army is stationed to the right of Braddock's road, at a point between Fairfax and Centreville, 100,000 strong, with 200 pieces of artillery, indifferently manned, badly disciplined, barefooted and dispirited. His army is said to contain about 11,000 Maryland volunteers.

Richmond papers put the Federal loss in the engagement of Leesburg at 2000 in killed and wounded, and state that General Evans fought "contrary to orders, for which he is to be court-martialed. Southern papers put their loss at 300 killed and wounded.

Preparations were being made to meet the enemy who were advancing 2,800 strong, when Gen. Fremont received an order from Washington, relieving him at once of his command. The intelligence spread like wild-fire throughout the camp, and created indescribable excitement and indignation. On taking leave of the army, the General addressed them, urging them to display the same valor and respect for discipline under his successor, which they had exercised under him. All was gloom and discontent on his departure. They were prepared to do their duty, but their enthusiasm departed with their beloved General. He was accompanied by his body-guard, and would reach St. Louis on the 6th inst. The general impression seems to be that he did all that human energy could accomplish under circumstances of the utmost difficulty and embarrassment. The impression is rapidly gaining ground in well informed circles, that a thorough investigation will show that not General Fremont, but those who are the loudest in crying out against him are responsible for the failures and difficulties in the Western Division.

General Halleck, of California, had arrived, and was introduced to the President by General McClellan. It was reported that Gen. Rosecrans had repulsed Floyd, and at last accounts Generals Benham and Schenck had got in his rear, and it was expected that Floyd's force would be captured by them.

The Norfolk Day-Book mentions a rumor that General Beauregard had resigned.

A private dispatch was received at St. Louis on the 7th, to the effect that Charleston, having been bombarded by the fleet and attacked by a force of 30,000 in the rear, was captured by the Federal troops.

The reported resignation of General Scott is confirmed. He goes to Europe on account of his health, and General McClellan takes his place.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Scottish Gathering which took place at Montreal on the 10th August last, is said to have been a grand affair, and the performances of some of the competitors were wonderful exhibitions of athletic power and skill. The light hammer of 14 lbs., was thrown 132 feet; the heavy hammer, 22 1/2 lbs., 91 feet. The heavy stone, 22 lbs., was thrown 32 feet; the light stone, 16 lbs., 40 feet 6 inches. High leap, 5 feet 3 inches; long leap, 16 feet 8 inches. Our Nova Scotia Scotchmen must cultivate their muscle to some extent before they will equal some of these performances.—Nova Scotian.

The Scottish Volunteer Primrose Medal was fired for on Wednesday last, and won by Mr. Charles H. Caldwell. Nine points were made out of five shots at 300 yards.—Id.

The St. John, N. B., Colonial Empire says:—"It is now a settled conviction, that Nova Scotia is one rich gold field, and that before six months she will have an increase to her population of 100,000 souls."

The Canadian steamer Banshee, was recently wrecked between Port Stanley and Montreal. One passenger, a Montreal printer, was drowned.

A late English paper says, Major Nugent, deputy-assist. adjut. gen. at Aldershot, has been appointed Assist. Quartermaster General at Halifax.

ASSAY OF GOLD DUST.—Mr. Agrell, assayer of Portland, has furnished us the following table showing the fineness of dust assayed by him from the different localities mentioned:

Fraser river, fineness, 830 to 850—	$17 15.75 to $17 57.11
Rhodes Creek, " 800 " 830—	16 53.75 " 17 15.75
Nez Perces, " 770 " 800—	15 91.73 " 16 53.75
Rock Creek, " 810 " 840—	16 74.42 " 17 36.42
Cariboo, " 815 " 830—	16 34.75 " 17 15.75
Colville, " 770 " 800—	15 91.73 " 16 72.35
South Fork, " 820 " 830—	16 95.09 " 17 15.75

While this table shows that the gold dust taken from the Fraser river is a trifle finer than that from the Nez Perces, still there is no assay showing a less value than $15 91.73—as 770 is the least figure in fineness. Persons bringing dust from the mines will find that there is money made by having their gold dust run into bars before selling.—Oregonian.

The above is incorrect as regards the gold of British Columbia. Our gold is of the average fineness of 862; and from some localities it is as high as 910. But it would appear from the following extract that even that is quite surpassed by the Nova Scotian gold:

"We have lately seen a sample of gold quartz from Tangier river, Nova Scotia, with a sample of its gold assayed by Dr. Gesner, of this city. The gold, we are told, is 988-1,000ths in purity, and worth nearly $20 per ounce. Quite a number of persons have gone to the gold diggings, and as this province is known to abound in coal, iron and other valuable minerals, it has become of still greater importance by the discovery of the precious metal."—N. Y. Scientific American.

A prize fight took place on the 24th ult. at Troy, N. Y., between two women. It lasted three quarters of an hour, and is said to have been a bloody affair. It was gotten up by two brutes in male attire. One of the women was badly beaten, both eyes being swollen, and the other woman had her thumb dislocated and her head nearly broken.
